Purpose

This document presents the results of the tests carried out on the Israeli website, the comfort shoe company, "Teva Naot", has several stores in Israel. ## Recommendation

1. Optimize Page Load Speed: Optimize the website's code and image sizes to improve page load speed. Slow loading times can result in higher bounce rates and lower user engagement.
2. Since it is an Israeli brand, 70% of its production is exported abroad, it is recommended to attach importance about it on the site. I recommended linking the international site. Recommended to give the option to use additional languages.
3. Improve Accessibility: Ensure that the website is fully accessible to users with disabilities by following Web Content Accessibility Guidelines (WCAG) standards. This includes providing alternative text for images, captions for videos, and clear labeling for all interactive elements.
4. It is recommended to check the spam law in Israel. The website sends a lot of documents to the customer's email address, without permission. The company is thereby exposed to lawsuits.
5. It is recommended to check the payment interface and the favorites interface. Their interface works in a suboptimal way and can make it difficult for the user to make a purchase or mark a favorite item.
6. It is recommended to introduce a product comparison feature, so that the customer can compare several different products.

Conclusion - Go

Following the various tests carried out on the "Teva Naot" website, A few bugs were found. Most of them have a severity level between low and major, and most of them are defined as UI/UX bugs. Despite the large amount of bugs, the site is still Functions in a reasonable manner and performs its main functions, which are viewing the products and ordering them for self-pickup or delivery to the home or to the nearest branch. Home/self-collection. As a result, I recommended releasing the site.
